

had some pretension to good breeding. It was scarcely appropriate therefore for Snake, who manifestly belonged to the underworld, to play the exquisite courtier in the opening scene. The saying, 'Clothes make the man,' is only partially true, and the abject sneak of the last act was a more convincing portrait. It might be argued also that Joseph Surface was too deliberate in his asides. So inveterate a hypocrite would scarcely pause to analyse his motives or to reflect on the part he ought to play. Sheridan followed the fashion of his time in using soliloquy as an aid to the less intelligent part of his audience, but it was a clumsy device that hinders the actor more than it helps him: it should therefore be obscured rather than emphasized. Such blemishes, however,—if indeed they are blemishes—are an almost negligible factor in a production that gave immense pleasure to everyone who saw it and reflects the highest credit on everyone who took part in it. We thank them all for a delightful evening.

CHARTERHOUSE v LONDON HOSPITAL

At Home. May 12th. Drawn.

On a perfect wicket London Hospital had no difficulty in scoring freely off all the Charterhouse bowlers, who seldom looked like taking wickets. For Charterhouse Lynch, May and Popplewell all batted well.

CHARTERHOUSE v R.A.C. O.C.T.U., SANDHURST

At Home. May 19th. Drawn.

Charterhouse were fortunate to win the toss and chose to bat on a perfect wicket. Runs came slowly at first but Spargo and May soon increased the pace and Rimell was able to declare at tea-time. Spargo played a very good innings indeed, and May showed that he had lost none of last year's skill. Charterhouse bowling was erratic and runs came fairly freely, though it was a good catch by Wilson that dismissed Aird. H. A. Hely-Hutchinson, last year's captain of Eton, gave a fine display of batting and was undefeated at the end.

CHARTERHOUSE v WELLINGTON

Home. May 26th. Won by 8 wickets.

On a wet wicket an inexperienced Wellington team soon found themselves in difficulties. Runs were hard to get and the bowlers were very accurate, especially Whitby, who claimed the first two wickets. The wicket at this time was definitely tricky and it seemed that Wellington had been unwise to bat first. When Rimell came on to bowl a collapse set in and only Wollocombe seemed capable of playing his spin bowling. A very good catch by Spargo dismissed him at 47 and Rimell finished off the innings just before lunch. His analysis of 6 for 10 shows how very well he was flitting and spinning the ball. Whitby and Perry maintained an excellent length and Popplewell kept wicket well. The fielding, too, was good. When Charterhouse went in to bat the wicket was considerably easier and runs came quickly, although Lynch was out at 14 and Popplewell at 45. Spargo and May soon passed the Wellington total and scored freely all round the wicket. May showed that he is still master of any bowling and scored a fine century: Spargo scored his second fifty this season. The Wellington team, with only one old colour, were obviously no match for the skilful Charterhouse bowling, and Rimell gave them no chance to recover.

CHARTERHOUSE v TONBRIDGE

Away. June 2nd. Won by 8 wickets.

Once again the Charterhouse bowling was too good for our opponents, who showed little skill in playing spin bowling. At 11.15 Tonbridge went into bat and after an hour's play had lost one wicket for 21 runs. At this point Rimell came on instead of Whitby, who had been bowling well, and at lunch-time the score stood at 22 for 4. Only half an hour was needed to get the remaining 6 wickets for an addition of 9 runs. That Tonbridge took 1½ hours was due to the extremely accurate bowling of Perry, whose analysis reflects great credit on him. Rimell, too, bowled superbly and seemed unplayable.

Prior and Whitby opened for Charterhouse and the runs began to come, although Whitby was out trying to pull a short one and Aitchison, who had been batting well, was bowled. Rimell, in his first innings for the XI this season, had the misfortune to be well caught at fine leg, but when May joined Prior the pace was quickened and May put up the 100 and his own 50 with a beautiful straight drive. Prior, who was batting steadily, soon reached his 50 and the innings was declared.

The chief features of the match were the masterly bowling of Rimell, who never had any difficulty in getting his wickets, and of Perry, who hardly bowled a loose ball in the game.

CHARTERHOUSE v BRADFIELD

Away. June 9th. Won by 5 wickets.

On a wet wicket Bradfield chose to put us in to bat. In the first over two wickets fell for three runs and it seemed as if they would dismiss us for a small score. Then Lynch, who had been batting well, was 1-b-w and Aitchison was bowled; the score stood at 20 for 4. The wicket was very slow and when Rimell joined May the bowling was made to look easy. The score slowly rose. At 76 May, who was batting extremely well, reached his 50 and not long after the 100 went up. At lunch-time the score was 126 for 4, with May 71 and Rimell 36. After lunch the pace was quickened and about 3.15 the score reached 200. The next ball May reached his 100 with a beautiful on-drive. Rimell, who had been hitting freely, was out a few minutes later after a very sound innings of 90. Rain began to fall and the innings was declared at 232. May was undefeated at the end and his innings was one of his best for Charterhouse. Both he and Rimell gave several chances but otherwise they batted with great skill and saved a very perilous situation.

Bradfield began their innings with great caution and after an hour's play the score was 22. Rimell tried numerous bowlers in an attempt to dislodge them but it was Whitby who finally succeeded in getting the first wicket. With about an hour's play still to go the score was 45 for 4 and it seemed unlikely that any decision would be reached, but accurate bowling by Rimell combined with some good fielding completely altered the position and at 6.45 the total was 78 for 9. The last two batsmen stoutly defended their wickets. With one over to go a catch was given to mid-wicket, who dropped it. Two balls later another catch was sent to the same fielder and this time it was held.

May's and Rimell's innings put Charterhouse in a winning position, and once again Rimell succeeded in taking most of our opponents' wickets.

CHARTERHOUSE v ETON

At Home. June 12th.

Match abandoned because of rain.

Eton began their innings at noon on a slow wicket and, although losing two of their best batsmen, Blake and Keeling, early on, managed to compile 50 runs in the first hour. Perry and Whitby were bowling a good length but could not get much pace out of the dead wicket. Rimell also found the wicket lifeless and with 73 on the board, lunch was taken.

Soon after the interval the match woke up—Rudd was bowled by Perry (his third wicket!) and Lutyens was caught by Nathan at short-leg off Raven. Twenty runs later Gore, who had hit a beautiful six off Raven, was dismissed by the same bowler.

There followed an interesting stand between Gordon and Coles which put on fifty useful runs. Some indifferent fielding marked the closing stages of the innings and thirty runs were added by Gordon and the last man, Wellesley, who played as straight as an opening batsman.

Two hundred to get in two hours on a slowish wicket was a difficult task but if May and Rimell could get going together it was not an impossible one. Lynch and Nathan, opening the innings, were not comfortable against some good bowling by Speer and Gore, who were using the new ball effectively. Lynch was the first to go, and although Raven hit a couple of boundaries the score only crawled along and had reached 17 when black clouds, which had been hovering about all day, dropped their cargo and flooded the pitch!

This was a great pity because a struggle between the Etonian bowlers and Rimell and May would have been interesting to watch. Last year May and Rimell won . . . ! And next year . . . ?

CHARTERHOUSE v WINCHESTER

At Home. June 21st.

Lost by 34 runs.

Exceptionally heavy rain on the morning of the match delayed the start till after lunch, and it was obvious that the side winning the toss and batting first would have a considerable advantage, for the bowlers would have trouble in getting a firm foothold and also in controlling a wet ball.

In spite of this the bowlers and the fielders kept the runs down and Winchester scored only fifty runs in the first hour for the loss of Maynard. By then the wicket, drying quickly under the effect of wind and sun, began to be so difficult that even the best Wykhamist batsmen could not cope with the varying height and speed of the good-length bowling of Perry, Aitchison and Rimell. Indeed, the last-named added cunning flight and spin to the other difficulties and the side were all out by tea-time for the small total of 102. Baines was the only later batsman to have any success in these peculiar conditions. Perry bowled one memorable over, dismissing three batsmen in four balls.

The heavy roller made the pitch easier for a time and Perry was sent in with Raven to score quickly. This he did to the best of his ability in spite of the sudden disasters at the other end, where Raven was stumped off the wicket-keeper's pads in the first over and Whitby was completely defeated by an in-swinging from Macdonnell. But May and Perry scored freely, taking the score to 29 before Perry was cleverly stumped by Baines.

Further calamities followed—Rimell and Popplewell were both dismissed without scoring—and with 37 for 5 on the board Carthusian hopes now rested on May, who was playing a careful innings on this sticky wicket. Every loose ball, however, he hit very hard, but the well-placed fielders stopped many a promising drive. Then a magnificent catch by Macdonnel at short extra-cover dashed these hopes. The remaining batsmen offered only temporary resistance and an interesting match, dominated by the condition of the pitch, ended in a win for Winchester by 38 runs.

Both sides produced excellent fielding and first-class wicket-keeping. The Charterhouse bowling seemed to have more variety and a better length, but the visitors' slight superiority in fielding and batting added to the advantage gained from winning the toss gave them their victory.

FOOTBALL

CHARTERHOUSE v WINCHESTER

At Redhill. March 31st. Won 2—1.
 (Godden, Spratt)

On March 31st a return match with Winchester was played at Redhill. This was due to the initiative of Mr. A. H. Leppard, who has refereed inter-school matches since 1933 at Charterhouse. Recently other schools have also realized his worth and he has now quite a clientèle of Public Schools who clamour for his benign but very efficient whistling on the field of battle. As he has had a wide experience of professional and amateur league Soccer, we feel it a great compliment that he appreciates our sort of football so much that he enticed Charterhouse and Winchester to stage a repeat performance at Redhill with the prime object of showing the local rising talent that it is possible to play a really hard game without questioning the motives of the opponents if one is sent for six. As a result of his energy, some two thousand people saw a very typical school match in which there was plenty of incident, quite a lot of good football and plenty of missed chances. Quite a lot of Old Wykehamists and Old Carthusians swelled an enthusiastic crowd in the stand. Winchester started off as though they were determined to avenge the defeat they suffered at Charterhouse, and in the first five minutes they scored through a run by Butler, who put the ball to Walker who was unmarked and who scored with a magnificent drive. Charterhouse equalized through a long shot from Godden, at which en passant a Winchester back let loose a powerful but inaccurate kick which easily baffled his 'keeper a few feet away. Charterhouse got their winning goal about ten minutes from the end through a fine shot by Spratt into the right-hand corner.

A three course meal (most generously provided by G. J. Searle, Esq., O.C.) rounded off a very pleasant afternoon and we sincerely hope that the standard of play came up to expectations, and that the bangs and bounces occurred on fruitful ground. Any profits went to the Army Cadet Corps.

CHARTERHOUSE—H. Le Bas; A. J. Rimell mi., W. N. B. Parker; M. J. Rimell ma. (Capt.), J. M. Waddell, J. B. Spargo; E. P. Wilson, P. S. I. Godden, G. D. Spratt, B. H. Price, P. E. Bridge.

HOCKEY

CHARTERHOUSE v R.A.F. REGIMENT

At Home. March 10th. Won 4—1.
 (Henshaw 3, May)

CHARTERHOUSE—G. R. W. Carter (Capt.); W. N. Kitson, ma., W. N. B. Parker; F. J. Hill, D. G. Francis, C. G. R. Buxton; A. L. Albu, P. S. I. Godden, P. B. H. May, T. D. T. Henshaw, E. P. Wilson.

CHARTERHOUSE v HURSTPIERPOINT

At Home. March 14th. Lost 2—4.
 (Albu, May)

The game began badly for Charterhouse. Not long after the start Kitson fumbled on the edge of the circle, allowing a Hurstpierpoint forward to rush and take the ball from him: the shot which followed gave Carter no chance. A few minutes later Francis and Carter muddled each other and Hurstpierpoint took the opportunity to score a second goal. Then Charterhouse pulled themselves together. Albu ran through by himself and scored an excellent goal, which was followed not long afterwards by another resulting from a hard shot from Wilson which was finally put in by May. At half-time the score was two-all.

With a quarter of an hour left, Hurstpierpoint scored their third goal from a melée in front of goal after a corner, the ball actually being deflected into the net by Parker. This virtually decided the match. Although the Charterhouse forwards, brilliantly led by Godden, tried hard to equalize, they met with no success. Their faults were their tendency to be offside far too often and their slowness to shoot in the circle. A few minutes from the end Hurstpierpoint scored again from the back line, making the final score 2—4. Charterhouse were rather unlucky and perhaps deserved a more complimentary result. For the defence Carter and Parker played very well indeed. However, it was an excellent game and the visitors proved just the better side: their
